SCHLEY WILL TESTIFY

He Is to Be the Last Witness Before the Court of Inquiry.

WILL REVIEW THE ENTIRE CAMPAIGN

For the First Time the Man Who Sank Cervera's Fleet Will Give to the World His Version of the Controversy.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The presentation of the Schley side of the case was continued in the Schley court of inquiry Tuesday. When Monday's witnesses had been recalled and made the corrections necessary in their testimony, they were promptly dismissed, and at the instance of Mr. Rayner, the judge advocate summoned Lieutenant Commander James H. Sears, who as lieutenant was Admiral Schley's flag officer on board the Brooklyn during the war with Spain. He testified to many details connected with the campaign and was succeeded by a number of other naval officers who served on the Brooklyn.

Admiral Schley thinks it quite probable that the presentation of testimony in his behalf can be completed this week and next. He will be the last of the witnesses to be heard and when he goes on will make a review of the entire campaign covering the points in controversy.

Lieutenant Commander Sears testified that when the flying squadron arrived off Cienfuegos he knew nothing of a code of signals for communication with the Cuban insurgents. Questioned concerning the McCalla memoranda, he said it had been brought to Commodore Schley by the Hawk and by no other vessel to his knowledge. Commander Sears gave a detailed account of the encounter with the British steamer Adula, the examination on this point being as follows: "The Adula arrived off the port there and was boarded at first under orders from Commodore Schley by the Castine. After Captain Berry of the Castine made his report, the commodore sent one of the officers of the Brooklyn aboard her. After he returned and made report the commodore directed me to go aboard the Adula and see if I could contrive in some manner of inducing the captain of the Adula, an Englishman, to put himself out a little to tell us something about what was going on inside Cienfuegos. The captain said, of course, he would be very glad to do it, as he was coming under some authority from our fleet in Jamaica. He suggested that when he came out, next day, we should bring him to with a shot so that anybody observing it from shore would see that he was acting under force, and that anybody who could speak Spanish could find all they pleased from the refugees she had on board."

Foiled By the Adula.

"With what understanding did they go into port? Was there any understanding with you?" "That he was asked to come out the next day and it would be possible for us to get that information in fact, that it would be very easy to do so."

"Did he come out next day?" "He did not."

Witness also stated that Commodore Schley told him Captain McCalla brought a code of signals for communication with the insurgents on shore near Cienfuegos. Describing the blockade of Cienfuegos, Lieutenant Commander Sears said it was maintained from one to four miles out and that the Dupont was stationed inside with instructions to keep close into the mouth of the harbor and maintain careful watch, reporting any suspicious incidents.

Witness in giving the details of the cruise from Cienfuegos to Santiago, said the weather was boisterous with a heavy sea and that coaling at sea would not have been safe before May 27, when it was undertaken. With reference to the blockade at Santiago, witness said it was maintained at varying distances of from three to six miles to suit the commander-in-chief. In thick weather and at night the distance was less than in fair weather and the daytime. He also described the reconnaissance of May 31, when the Colon was fired upon and giving his conclusions with reference to that event he said it developed the strength of the land batteries and they proved stronger than he had supposed. Commodore Schley, he said, told him his purpose was to ascertain what the batteries were. Witness described the engagement of July 3. After stating the preliminary incidents, he said: "I was in my room when I hear the cry of the executive officer: 'Clear ship for action.' I knew what that meant and ran to the quarter deck. I looked aloft to see if the prescribed signal 'enemy is escaping' was up and saw that it was. I met the commodore on the quarter deck. He directed the signal 'clear ship for action,' followed by the signal to 'close in,' all of which were made. From my position I had a good view of the entrance. Our ship was heading at the time, I should say, to the westward of north, not on her regular heading, which was about northeast by north. The engines had been started by the time I got on deck and she was gaining way and swinging toward the enemy. The first vessel, which proved to be the flagship Maria Teresa, came out. She was directly on our bearing from the entrance to the port. As the ship swung toward the Teresa she swung slowly around. To me the Teresa appeared to not hold an exactly steady course, and the helm of our ship was eased one way or the other to keep our ram pointing toward the Teresa. The Teresa shortly turned squarely toward the westward and as she did so I got a view of the ship following in her wake. It was my observation that the Brooklyn was then held up to meet the second ship approaching. Of course we ported helm. The second ship passed in the wake of the first, and I said to the commodore it looked as if the second ship was going to try to ram us. He, I think, assented. At any rate, the Brooklyn was held toward her and she appeared to me, to be uncertain in her course. The Brooklyn was handled by the captain and quartermaster. She turned after she had passed to the southward of the Teresa's wake and followed her and then it was generally remarked on the lower bridge they were all going to try and escape to the westward. Just about the time the Viscaya turned, Yeoman Ellis who was a trained observer with the stadimeter, came to me on the platform and said his stadimeter showed 900 yards to the Viscaya. I immediately took an especial look at the Viscaya with that in mind and in my judgment confirmed the stadimeter. I said to the commodore: 'I think we are about our tactical diameter from that ship now,' and he said 'I think so, too,' or 'we are.' Then the order was 'hard aport.' I am not positive who gave that order. I think the commodore said 'hard aport,' and Captain Cook said 'It is hard aport.' The helm was kept hard aport and the ship swung rapidly in her turning circle. When the order was given 'hard aport' I looked at the next vessel in our fleet, the Texas, and in my judgment she was completely clear of her, and as we turned we passed well clear of her.

Never Touched the Texas.

After the turn was completed we found ourselves abreast or perhaps a little abaft the beam of the leading ship. The smoke at this time was very dense, but there were two ships in plain sight and occasionally we could get glimpses of the third. Shortly afterward the smoke lifted to the rear and I saw the Oregon coming toward us and also got a momentary glimpse of the remainder of our fleet and the whole Spanish fleet. I saw the torpedo boats and I sent one of the commodore's orderlies to the afterguns to notify them that they might look out. At that time I saw the Vixen on our port side which gave us a feeling of satisfaction that she would also protect us from torpedo attack. The course of the battle was continued on these lines with varying distances. It is my impression we held a very straight course. The navigator was trying to maintain this course to keep our guns to bear to the best range. After about 10 or 20 minutes more we were very hotly engaged with these three vessels. The Oregon was astern of us and the Texas astern of her. The Viscaya began to blaze up, flames would rise and subside and she turned in toward shore. Shortly previous to this she had made what appeared to us a change in her helm so as to bring her out toward the Brooklyn. It was taken by us to mean an attempt to ram us. The Brooklyn's helm was handled to give the ship toward her. This she did I think twice. The Viscaya resumed her course and we did also. The commodore spoke of the advisability of signalling through the Oregon to the Texas to stay by the Viscaya when she turned in and insure her surrender, but after a moment's thought he said: 'Philip will know enough to look out for that,' and we proceeded. While we were engaged on the beam of the Viscaya, the Colon had passed inside of the Viscaya, firing but gradually drawing away. We were increasing our speed as rapidly as the fires could be forced, and after the Viscaya had gone on we continued the chase after the Colon. The forcing of the fire told and we began to overhaul her or else she began to slacken her speed. We estimated the distance to the Colon to be fully 12,000 yards. It was beyond the extreme range of the stadimeter.

Colon Run Down.

After we began to gain upon the Colon the commodore directed the Oregon to try her guns at her. Then the Oregon and the Brooklyn fired deliberately at the Colon. After our fire she began to waver in toward the shore. Her course was unsettled, and the commodore said he thought she had enough of it and was looking for a soft spot to lie upon, which proved to be the case. She fired occasionally at us, rather rapidly at first, and then it became weaker. She was close in to shore at that time, and at 1:15 hauled down her flag. Captain Cook and Lieutenant Wells were sent on board the Colon to receive the surrender."

When Commander Sears completed his description of the battle Mr. Rayner asked if Commodore Schley had given him a dispatch to be sent to the navy department, making a report of the battle. The witness replied in the affirmative. Admiral Dewey then asked if this dispatch had been sent, and was informed by Mr. Rayner that it had not been forwarded to the department, although it had been taken to the cable office. The court decided that as the dispatch had not reached the department it could not appear.

"Suppose it was not Commodore Schley's fault that the dispatch was not forwarded?" asked Mr. Rayner. To this inquiry Admiral Dewey responded: "You can't ask questions of the court. We are not in the witness box. Commodore Schley's report is in evidence, and that is sufficient."

Mr. Rayner then passed to other points of inquiry, asking as to the distance between the Brooklyn and the Texas when the former made her turn. Witness replied that he had given only sufficient attention to see that there was no danger of a collision between the two vessels, and did not feel able to give exact figures. He was sure there was a wide gap of water, possibly about 600 yards.

Mr. Rayner questioned witness concerning his association with Lieutenant Commander Potts on the Massachusetts, and asked if he had heard the commodore say during the Colon reconnaissance anything in the presence of Mr. Potts concerning the conspicuousness of the uniforms of the officers as they stood on the turret during the firing of the enemy's batteries. The witness replied in the negative.

"Was the commodore behind the conning tower on that occasion?" "He was both behind and in front of it; he was moving about."

Schley's Bravery.

In reply to a question, Commander Sears said he had been with Commodore Schley in five engagements, all told. He was then asked as to the bearing of Schley under fire, and replied: "His bearing to me was a model for anybody, worthy of emulation at all times. Under fire his faculties, if it was possible, seemed to be clearer and more in possession of them than at any other time."

"Was he in any state of excitement?" "Not the slightest."

"Was he cool and calm?" "Absolutely."

"How about points of danger—would he get away from them, or did he expose himself to them?" "He was always putting himself in exposed positions. I requested him many times not to expose himself, as it was useless to do so."

Judge Advocate Lemly conducted the cross-examination of Commander Sears, going into details quite extensively, but developing nothing of additional interest.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.

Roland B. Molineux Given Another Chance For His Life.

Albany, Oct. 15.—The court of appeals has granted Roland B. Molineux a new trial.

Molineux was convicted of the murder of Catharine J. Adams in New York city and sentenced to death. The court grants a new trial on a prevailing opinion given by Judge Werner of Rochester, his principal ground being that the lower court erred in admitting evidence as to another alleged crime, the death of Barnett, thus merging two issues. Justices Parker, Haight and Gray did not believe the Barnett evidence should be kept entirely out of the case; Judges Werner, Bartlett, Vann and O'Brien concurred in the prevailing opinion and for the expunging of the Barnett testimony. The court gave out a condensed statement of the reasons for granting the new trial. It says:

"Every member of the court of appeals agrees for the reversal of the judgment of conviction of Molineux on the ground that the trial court erred in receiving as evidence the declarations of Barnett made to Drs. Phillips and Dougless that he had received Kuhn powder through the mail."

The only subject about which the members of the court differ in their opinion relates to the testimony introduced tending to show that Molineux caused the death of Barnett by the same method as that used in taking the life of Mrs. Adams. Four of the members of the court, O'Brien, Bartlett, Vann and Werner, agree that the evidence should not have been received.

The other three judges, Parker, Gray and Haight, hold that the evidence is admissible in that the evidence in the Barnett case pointing toward Molineux leads to identify him as the person who killed Mrs. Adams while attempting to take the life of Cornish

CIVIL SERVICE REFORMER.

President Roosevelt an Ardent Advocate of the System—Postmasters to Be Given a Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—William Dudley Foulke, of Richmond, Ind., a member of the United States Civil Service Reform League, was one of the callers on the President Saturday. He came by invitation to talk over civil service matters. After the White House visit, Mr. Foulke had a long conference with Mr. Proctor, President of Civil Service Commission. It was semi-officially reported from the White House afterward that the President would offer to Mr. Foulke the first vacancy on the Civil Service Commission, and it was intimated that he hoped their would be a vacancy soon. Inasmuch as Commissioner Rodenburg is to retire this year to become a candidate for Congress, the President's suggestion amounts to an invitation to take Mr. Rodenburg's place. Mr. Rodenburg has not been considered a civil service man. Mr. Foulke is a man of wealth, has devoted a great deal of his life to civil service reform, and, if he should go into office, would become a powerful factor in governmental department service.

In this connection it is announced that the President will not take the recommendation of Congressmen to change presidential postmasters, when it is shown that the present incumbent is performing his duties to the best interests of the postal service. This will give every postmaster who is turned down by his Congressman a chance to carry his case up to the White House. Heretofore it has been the policy of the President to leave the postoffice patronage largely in the hands of the Congressmen.

STUDYING ITS NEEDS.

Congressman Kehoe Posting Himself on the Resources of the Big Sandy Valley.

[Big Sandy News.]

Congressman James N. Kehoe passed up on the train Thursday for a tour of inspection of the Big Sandy valley, in order to see for himself the vast resources of the valley and the great need of slack water navigation. He will go up the Levisa fork and return by way of the Tug fork. Mr. Kehoe said that he believed that by making this trip and familiarizing himself with the river and its tributaries, as well as the vast resources of the valley, he would be able to make a more successful fight for an appropriation at the coming session of Congress.

Mr. Kehoe will try and complete his observations in time to attend the Lawrence County fair here. If he succeeds in doing this a treat is in store for those who attend the fair that day, as he will be sure to make a speech.

KENTUCKY MASONS.

Annual Report of the Grand Treasurer Shows Finances Are in Good Shape.

Other Matters.

The report of Grand Treasurer Leathers of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Kentucky shows the following for past year:

Balance at close of last session	$13,118.89
From interest and dividends	347.00
From expense account	327.44
From H. B. Grant, Grand Secretary	11,053.23
Total	$24,846.06
Disbursements:
Stationery and printing account	$1,892.60
Mileage and per diem account	789.92
Salary and appropriation account	4,074.35
Postage account	186.46

Two items in the appropriation account of the disbursements are a donation to Cloverport sufferers, $200, and a donation to Jacksonville sufferers, $250.

According to the estimates received at the Department of Agriculture, the wheat crop of the world for 1901 is larger than it has been for two years. The estimate of the Hungarian department is 2,671,360,000 bushels. Beerbohm's corn list of London gives it as 2,711,600,000, and the Bulletin Des Halles of Paris as 2,790,310,000 Winchester bushels.

Hon. J. J. Osborne, Democratic nominee for Circuit Judge in the Nicholas-Harrison-Robertson district, is a native of Germantown, and was born March 4th, 1857. He worked for twelve years as a saddle and harness maker, but in 1885 was licensed to practice law, and has since then devoted his time to his profession.

Some men are Democrats only when they are candidates for office.

BOLSTERING UP HOPE.

British Trying to Make Themselves Believe the End Is Near.

AS IN THE PAST, "MUCH DEPENDS."

Gloating Over the Prospect That the Boers Will Be Starved Out on Their Own Territory—News From Foreign Lands.

London, Oct. 14.—Apropos General Kitchener's proclamation and the policy of declaring martial law in Cape Colony, if he succeeds the rebellion will be stamped out in Cape Colony and the Boers repulsed from the invasion of Natal will be gradually starved out on their own territory. Much depends upon the temper and ability of the Boers respecting reprisals. They will lose the support of their Cape allies unless they can avail themselves of the sources of retaliation, horrible as the alternative may be. The question is discussed with bated breath in London and the opinion expressed is that Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner have waited before adopting strenuous measures until the precise moment when Botha, Dewet and Delarey are at the end of their resources and unable to capture British soldiers and retaliate by shooting them in return for hanging Cape farmers and the execution of Lotter's death sentence.

Sky Sailor's Voyage Failed.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The attempt of Count De La Vaulx to cross the Mediterranean in a balloon, which left Los Sablillas, near Toulon Saturday night has failed. The minister of marine, M. De Lanessan, has received a dispatch from Toulon announcing that the cruiser Dy Chayla, which was escorting the balloon, is returning to port with the balloon and her passengers which she picked up 10 miles east of the St. Laurent light house. The balloon was uninjured. The result of the experiment did not cause any surprise after the news brought to Marseilles by incoming steamers that the southeast winds which were blowing out at sea would carry the balloon to the coast of Spain or to Gibraltar. Moreover, the latest news from the passengers of the balloon indicated that it was proceeding very slowly. These two factors probably caused Count De La Vaulx to abandon his attempt.

Stock Exchange Rumor.

A rumor was started on the Stock Exchange that General Botha, the Boer commander-in-chief had been captured. However, a dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria Monday evening contains nothing more important than the weekly summary of the captures, a reiteration of the statement that General Kitchener's columns are moving against a considerable force of Boers near the Natal frontier with which General Botha is supposed to be, and the announcement that Commandant Scheepers' command in Cape Colony has been broken up.

Colombia Is Willing.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The directors of the new Panama company in a circular to the shareholders say that Colombia has expressed its readiness to sanction the transfer of the canal to the United States. An estimate of the value of the undertaking is being prepared at the request of the Isthmian canal commission. It will be ready by the time congress meets.

Bumped Against the Dock.

London, Oct. 15.—The British steamer Masepequa, Captain Watkins, which arrived at Havre from Galveston, collided with a pier and sustained serious damage, several of her bow plates having been stove in at the water line. Thirteen feet of masonry of the rock were displaced.

Maude Gonne is Gore.

London, Oct. 15.—It is reported that Maude Gonne has eluded the vigilance of the authorities and is now on her way to South Africa. The authorities of the principal ports have been notified to watch for her arrival.

Japs to Tackle the Bear.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—A war between Russia and Japan over Corea is predicted by Dr. Nicholas Senn, professor of surgery in the University of Chicago, who has arrived here from a tour of the Orient. He said: "While I was in Japan, I noticed on every hand that the Japanese were making preparations for war with Russia and they made no secret of it. The cause of the trouble is no secret in Japan. It wants Corea. Japan is not large enough for the Japanese. Russia practically holds Manchuria and Japan does not intend letting this nation extend its influence to Corea if this condition can be prevented. Hence these preparations for war."

Parties who have been sneering at the "snivel" service for years are singing very low since President Roosevelt assumed the duties of the office.

The news from Washington is calculated to throw a damper on those office seekers and politicians who have been sneering at the "snivel" service.

Captain Cook, commander of the flag ship Brooklyn and Chief of Staff to Admiral Schley during the Spanish-American war, probably knows more about the Admiral's conduct and the management of the naval campaign than all the historians of MacLay's stripe. Captain Cook was on the stand Monday and his testimony was to the point and furnishes a complete vindication of Admiral Schley. "I always regarded him (Schley) as an enthusiastic, brave and patriotic officer; I never had any other idea." That's Captain Cook's opinion, and it will be accepted in preference to that of Historian MacLay, who was never near a fight in which the Admiral was engaged. Captain Cook was not only positive in his opinion as to the Admiral's bravery, but his evidence also vindicates the latter's management of the campaign both at Cienfuegos and Santiago.

An importance point in his evidence bears on the fact brought out by the prosecution that some of the Brooklyn's engines were uncoupled when the Spanish fleet made its run out of Santiago harbor in its effort to escape, and that the Brooklyn was not in full fighting trim. Captain Cook testifies that these engines were uncoupled at that time in obedience to orders from Admiral Sampson, and that Admiral Schley was not at all in fault.

John Rudy Payne, son of Mrs. Alice Payne, died at her home on East Sixth street, at 8 o'clock last evening, of inflammatory rheumatism, complicated with heart trouble. He was fourteen years old the 24th of September, and was an industrious young man of excellent habits. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. to-morrow (Thursday) at his home, Rev. Dr. Boyet, of the Baptist Church, officiating.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE!

MASON CIRCUIT COURT.

Jacob Riley, Plaintiff, Against
Thomas K. Ball's adm'r and al., Defendants.
In obedience to a judgment and order of sale of the Mason Circuit Court, rendered in the above mentioned cause at the June term, 1899, I shall, on at 2 o'clock p. m. on the premises, proceed to sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of six, twelve and eighteen months, the following real property, to-wit: That certain real estate, lying and situated in the city of Maysville, Ky., and bounded as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of Limestone and Second streets, at the intersection of said streets; thence with Limestone street towards the Ohio river 36½ feet; thence easterly and parallel with Second street 214½ feet; thence southwardly and parallel with Limestone street 86½ feet to Second street; thence with Second street 214½ feet to the beginning, together with all buildings and improvements thereon. Or sufficient thereof to produce the sum of money to be made, to-wit: $3800 28-100 with interest from June 2nd, 1899, and costs of their action. BURGESS TAYLOR, Master Commissioner.

Garrett S. Wall, Attorney for Plaintiff.

STOCK CLEARANCE SALE!

A settlement of the estate of the late senior partner of this firm is to be made in January. A necessity of the event is the reduction of stock to the minimum. It is to our interest to convert goods into cash at the sacrifice of profit. It must be a clearance sale in the most comprehensive significance of the term—a sale in which neither cost, value nor loss get a moment's consideration. To reduce our immense stock is the only aim, the highest hope, the fixed determination. No man or woman who knows the value of a dollar, who understands this opportunity to save, will let it pass without taking advantage of it to the full as far as prudence and means permit. While many departments are represented here, it would take double the space this ad. occupies to tell of the dozens of other equally attractive bargains. Call on us, it's the only way to master all the facts.

SIX BIG VALUES!

No. 1—Melange Cheviot, 45 inches wide, 59c, original price $1. In all the new fall shades. If you can judge values we are sure wisdom will guide you rightly when you see this unusual bargain.

No. 2—Black Taffeta 27 inches wide, 75c., original price $1. Every yard guaranteed to wear. You may be surprised at the price, but you'll be more surprised at the quality.

No. 3—Oneita Union Snits, 43c. instead of 75c. Soft and fine, well made and finished. Closely knit to withstand many washings. You know the garment too well to need further description.

Everything mentioned above on sale now. Of course early comers have benefit of choice. No disappointments await you, complete satisfaction stamped on every offering.

None bigger, none better, none worthier ever offered the people of Maysville.

No. 4—Fancy Suitings, 42 and 45 inches wide, 29c. Original price 75c. Dark plaids and mixtures, strictly all wool. Effective for children's dresses, women's waists, wrappers and matinees.

No. 5—Women's Fleece-lined Stockings, 22½c., original price 35c. Fast block, silk fleece, ribbed or plain top, double sole and heel.

No. 6—Men's Two-piece Underwear, 43c., original price 75c. Best Maco cotton, finely woven, softly fleeced. A well cut and finished garment.

GRAND MASTER COLE

Reception in His Honor Last Evening a Delightful Affair.

Other Fraternities Unite With Oddfellows in Fitting Tributes to an Honored Citizen.

The reception tendered last evening by DeKalb Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F., in honor of Grand Master Allan D. Cole of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, was a most enjoyable affair throughout. Ringgold Lodge, I. O. O. F., Friendship Lodge, D. of R., and the various other fraternal orders of the city, united with DeKalb in this tribute to one of her honored members and a most worthy and popular citizen.

Previous to the reception Grand Master Cole made an official visit to DeKalb Lodge,—the first visit of the kind since his induction into the high position he holds. The formal honors were paid him, and then the lodge was closed, and the Daughters of Rebekah and other visitors were invited into the hall, where the following program was observed, Mr. H. C. Curran acting as master of ceremonies:

Gramophone solo, "Nearer, My God to Thee." Invocation by John Duley. Gramophone solo. Opening ode by members and visitors. Address of welcome by H. C. Curran. Response by Grand Master Cole. Presentation of bouquet of roses by Mrs. Geo. Schwartz, ex-President of State Rebekah Assembly.

In response to the address of welcome Grand Master Cole said:

Brother Oddfellows, Sister Rebekahs, Brother Curran and Representatives from the sister lodges: This occasion and your generous commendation touch me deeply. Your presence here to-night attests your devotion to our beloved order and to whatever is designed to promote its principles. Another decade has passed and Maysville Oddfellows have again been honored. For another year the eyes of Kentucky Oddfellows will be centered on Maysville. The selection made this year for the exalted position of Grand Master is due, I am sure, in a large measure to the prestige created through the achievements of the many excellent representatives sent by you to the Grand Lodge for the last twenty-five years. Nor again would I forget that the splendid records made by our well beloved Past Grand Masters, Plister and Cox, have doubtless induced our brothers throughout the State to hope in their present selection from Maysville Oddfellows for a repetition of their achievements. The honor thus conferred brings with it responsibility; there is a responsibility resting upon you as well as upon me. From these precincts an influence is expected to go forth which will be felt in the remotest bounds of our jurisdiction. Being the center of influence, these lodges are expected to lead in every good work. If it be true, as Victor Hugo says, that the elements of a great State are not alone its armies, the wisdom of its laws, the extent of its territories, but that over and above these the elements of a great State are its moral influence, the authority of its reason and enlightenment, then we can more fully realize the responsibility and supreme importance of our position as a moral force within our beloved Commonwealth. Should not this thought quicken our highest and best endeavors? Where so much power for good is given much is required. Let us, then, begin again to enlarge our membership and so extend the sphere of our influence; let us increase the funds of our lodge and so enlarge our power to relieve distress; let us contribute generously to our Widows' and Orphans' Home, this noble monument of unselfishness and love, as its needs may require; let us strive, as never before, to cultivate the fraternal feeling; let us make this, if possible, the best year Oddfellowship has ever had in Maysville.

When I communicate with the forty special deputies representing the Grand Master in the various districts throughout the State, I want to be able to tell them what we are doing in Maysville. When I communicate with the 300 or more lodge deputies throughout the State, I want them also to know what we are doing in Maysville. And when I meet the brothers face to face, as I hope to do in every lodge from the mouth of Sandy to Mills' Point, I know they will be eager to hear from Maysville, for they have heard of her before, and I want to be able to tell them every Oddfellow in Maysville is doing his whole duty. I wish in turn, from time to time, as I come home from my official visits to report to you the progress of the work during the coming year, in the success of which you are so vitally interested; and that you may know how your zeal has stirred up many to emulate your example. So you see our interdependence and how that, through the subtle power of influence, efforts for good in one locality will in time touch and strengthen our vast brotherhood.

To-night my first official visit to the brothers of my own lodge to whom I owe all that I am in Oddfellowship is marked by a most auspicious beginning. We are glad to have with us to-night the representatives from the various other fraternities in our city who honor this occasion with their presence and who thus show the true fraternal spirit that makes the whole world kin. May this occasion, fraught with brotherly kindness and originating in the noblest impulses of the human soul, be an earnest of a united effort throughout the entire jurisdiction to keeping the banner of Oddfellowship full high advanced in the war for the liberation of humanity. The more we see of events the less we come to believe in any fate or destiny except the destiny of character; and the more we come to believe that the man of noble character is the only free man, that the man of base character is the only slave.

Surrounded by kindred spirits from the various fraternities, whose aims are one with ours, may I not entreat that here again under the inspiration of this occasion we highly resolve that our undivided influence shall be given to hasten the long expected consummation of our endeavors, the full triumph of the principles of Friendship, Love and Truth, when every child of man, awakened to the vanity of all that allures, deceives and destroys can from the depths of his inner consciousness truly say:

"It is enough—
Enough—just to be good!
To lift our hearts when they are understood,
To let the thirst for worldly power and place
Go unappeased; to smile back in God's face
With the glad lips our mothers used to kiss.
Ah! though we miss
All else but this,
To be good is enough."

So must we be if we would leave the world a little better and not the worse for our having lived in it.

At 9 o'clock all adjourned to the banquet hall on the second floor where luncheon was served by the Daughters of Rebekah. The hall and tables were handsomely decorated, and the spread of good things was a sumptuous one. It is not necessary to add that it was most thoroughly enjoyed. At the table of honor were seated Grand Master Cole, Toastmaster Thomas A. Davis, Mrs. Schwartz, ex-President of the State Rebekah Assembly, the Noble Grands of DeKalb and Ringgold and the representatives of other orders. During the evening toasts were responded to by W. H. Corwin, a member from Ohio, W. Henry Wadsworth, representing the Elks, Dr. Yazell, the Masons, Vice Grand Hicks, of Ringgold Lodge, Mrs. Schwartz, the Daughters, Major John Walsh, of the Golden Eagle, Captain Jacob Miller, of the G. A. R., B. Zeff, an Oddfellow from far-off Russia, by James Outten, of the P. O. S. of A., Harry Walsh, of the Jr. O. U. A. M., Henry W. Ray for the Haymakers, W. C. Pelham, of the Red Men, Prof. Reganstone, of the K. of P., L. W. Galbraith (who took "a crack at creation") and by President Duley, of the Board of Trade. Several others who were not "down" for talks, also spoke briefly.

The occasion was indeed a most happy one, and all who were fortunate enough to be present will ever have pleasant memories of the evening.

Members of DeKalb who were unable to be present on account of sickness or infirmities, were not forgotten, as boxes of delicacies were sent them.

THE BEE HIVE

WE MAKE A PROFIT ON ALL THE Dress Goods

WE ARE SELLING NOW!

We have the most superb collection of Dress Fabrics ever shown in Maysville. We don't know of a single NEW fabric that is missing in this collection. The finest Dress Goods House in the world is Arnold, Constable & Co., of New York City, and we have secured the exclusive control of their line for Maysville. Our buyer makes the Dress Goods department his hobby. He studies all the fashions in Dress Goods the world over. If he hears of a new fabric coming over from the other side a telegram brings us a piece on its arrival in New York. We have sold more fine Dress Goods this year than the old store sold the whole of last winter. Next year we expect to sell more than all the stores in Mason County together. If you have seen our line you cannot deny that we have the finest collection in town. No old goods in the lot. That's why we ask a small profit. Are we not entitled to it?

JONES--HORD NUPTIALS.

The Mill Creek Christian Church the Scene of a Happy Marriage Tuesday at Noon.

Tuesday at high noon at the Mill Creek Christian Church, the wedding service of the Elder John B. Jones, of the Bellvue Christian Church, and Miss Harriett Hord, youngest daughter of the late Stephen Girard Hord, was solemnized.

The bride was radiantly handsome in a gown of rose colored silk, with hat of black velvet. She carried a large shower bouquet of Bride roses.

The dame of honor was Mrs. John Harbeson. The other attendants were Messrs. Harbeson, Clarke, Cook, Willett and Hascon. The marriage service was performed by Dr. J. W. McGarvey, of Lexington.

There were gathered on this occasion a large concourse of relatives and friends, whose generous and sincere congratulations added greatly to the joyous assembly, who wished the couple health, happiness and prosperity along their road-way of life.

The old and sacred building was beautifully decorated with flowers and autumnal tinted leaves and was filled with the beauty and chivalry for which this section is noted. The bride and groom left on the 3:20 train for their future home at Bellevue. This evening they will be tendered a reception by the members of the groom's church.

Mr. Allen Grover, of Sardis, a prominent citizen of that section, died last night of a disease of the stomach. The funeral will take place Thursday at 10 o'clock a. m. at Shannon.

As executor of Joseph M. Alexander, Hon. John W. Alexander has sold to Mary, Frank and Alexander Booten, sixty-six acres on North Fork for $2,574 cash.

Mr. Osborne, of Cynthiana, who is candidate for Circuit Judge of that district, was formerly of Washington, where he was a pupil of the late Rev. Samuel F. Taylor.

The farm of the late J. Nicholas Winn near Winchester was sold the past week to Mrs. Kate Edginton, who paid $120 per acre for a portion of it and $110 per acre for another part of the tract.

Mr. A. B. Jones, of the firm of Smith & Jones, of Yates Center, Kansas, has returned home after spending a few days here taking depositions in the case of John B. Thompson and others against Effie Colburn and others, pending in Woodson District Court, that State.

Miss Lucille Milam, daughter of Captain and Mrs. R. P. Milam, formerly of Millersburg, now living in Atlanta, will in November wed Mr. Charles A. Bowen, of Atlanta. Miss Milam is a niece of Captain John A. Miller, who married a daughter of the late James H. Hall.

KEFAUVER--ALBERT.

The Wedding of This Popular Couple a Brilliant Society Event.

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Cox on East Third street was the scene of a brilliant society event Tuesday evening, the marriage of Miss Katherine Albert to Colonel Charles B. Kefauver, of Charleston, West Virginia. The house was artistically decorated with palms, cut flowers and the glowing tints of autumn leaves.

The guests were received by Mrs. George Barbour, Miss Bessie Coons, Miss Pickett and Miss Ann Delia Power.

Promptly at half-past eight, preceded by the Reverend Augustine Smith, to the music of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, the bridal party entered the drawing-room in the following order: Colonel Kefauver and his best man, Mr. Douglass Hughes, of Charleston; the maid of honor, Miss Mary Alter Barbour, then the bride on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. George L. Cox.

The impressive service of the Episcopal Church was used and in front of the large round window at the end of the front drawing-room, with its background of palms and tropical plants, the troth was plighted.

The bride, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Katherine Albert, is one of Kentucky's acknowledged beauties, and was never more beautiful and charming than in her bridal gown of rich white satin, with point lace medallions. Her tulle veil was held by a diamond crescent, the gift of the groom. She carried a large bouquet of Brides roses.

The groom is a native of Baltimore, but has resided in West Virginia for a number of years. He is a rising young politician of his adopted State, and the positions of trust he has filled testify to the high esteem in which he is held.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbour, was very handsome in a soft white silk, trimmed with pink panne velvet and chiffon. She carried Bridesmaid roses.

After the ceremony and congratulations, an elaborate supper was served. At the bride's table the decorations were in pink and white, the cloth strewn with pink roses. In the center of the table was a massive silver candelabrum, a gift from the groom's parents, an heirloom in the family for two hundred years.

The health of the bride and groom was drunk from an old silver loving cup, which had served for the same purpose at the golden and diamond weddings of the bride's great-grandmother. Those seated at the bride's table were the bride and groom, Miss Barbour, Miss Bessie Coons, Mrs. George Barbour, Miss Pickett, Miss Ann Delia Power, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Thomas and Mr. Shearer, of Charles-

The bride's cake was cut amidst much merriment, and the ring fell to Miss Bessie Coons, the money to Miss Power.

Inspiring music was furnished by a stringed orchestra throughout the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kefauver left on the C. and O. train at 10:36 for an Eastern trip and on their return will reside in Parkersburg, West Virginia.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. A Strong Woman

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 15, 1900
My wife was sick for three years. We tried everything without relief and spent much money. My wife tried Wine of Cardui and four bottles cured her. She took two more bottles, knowing she would have to work hard during the hay harvest. She attended to all her household duties and loaded and unloaded all the hay. This medicine gave her strength. Formerly she was weak and tired and could hardly get about, but since she has been taking Wine of Cardui she feels better and stronger than when 20 years of age. JOS. A. EISENHAFER.

Mrs. Eisenhafer had tried everything during her three years sickness and had spent considerable money. She was weak and could hardly get about for three years before she took

WINE OF CARDUI

Now, after taking the Wine of Cardui, she can work with her husband in the hay field. That is hard work, but it is not as injurious to a woman's health as labor in stores, factories and offices where thousands of girls are closely confined year after year. With the aid of Wine of Cardui a woman can do any reasonable work and enjoy good health. The health that Wine of Cardui brings makes a woman vigorous in body and mind. Freed from those terrible devastating pains a woman grows well and strong naturally. Wine of Cardui regulates the disordered menstruation and cures leucorrhoea, falling of the womb and periodical pains in the head and back caused by standing or sitting a long time in the same position. Theford's Black-Draught puts the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys and blood in proper shape. Greatly increased strength and endurance is the natural result. Most cases are cured quickly. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and 25 cent packages of Theford's Black-Draught.
